

Nepal Journals Online

Nepal Journals Online (NepJOL) is an online platform hosting 125 Nepalese journals, with a vision to increase worldwide knowledge of indigenous scholarship. The largest online source of Nepalese scholarly research, NepJOL provides a unique window onto the research from the country.

Breadth

Includes 125 journals across the full range of academic disciplines

Visibility and readership

With an average of 19,000 visitors per month, articles published on NepJOL receive wide international readership

Credibility and reputation

Launched in 2007, NepJOL is supported by INASP and locally managed by Tribhuvan University Central library

Accessibility

All articles are freely available to read without subscription

How can journals join NepJOL?

If your journal is not included, and you would like to participate, contact: tucl@tucl.org.np

"We got more viewers for our journal after we put it online [NepJOL platform]. Many people call and tell us that they have read the articles online and comment about the articles."

Dr Mina Nath Poudel, Editor In-Chief of the Agronomy Journal of Nepal

"Publishing in NepJOL has a key advantage that published papers will be Open Access and as such easily available free of cost to any reader across the globe."

Prof Edwin van Teijlingen and Prof Padam Simkhada, UK

NepJOL uses the Open Journals System and is hosted by Ubiquity Press.

For more information, visit: www.nepjol.info